Evaluating Production Across a Spectrum: Lessons of our Proprietary Ultimate Ouantitative Baseline Stat

2015-16 Fantasy Overview

^ While the crop of #1 forwards is only marginally deeper than their counterparts at guard, but the difference widens greatly at the #2 level and it remains fairly pronounced most of the way through.

^ Almost half of the owners (four) in a 10-team league will end up with a top-flight center, assuming that nobody grabs two. But for those who miss out, patience is very necessary, with a second tier that extends all the way to #14.

^ The top incoming rookies are always points of interest, but rarely deliver big in their first year. 2015-16 doesn't seem atypical, with the first three players selected all projecting as having mid-round value.

Don't Be That Guy

- ^ Don't sleep on stat-sheet fillers who aren't as well-publicized as some of the megastars. Examples include Nicolas Batum, Marco Belinelli and Jose Calderon.
- ^ Don't show up unprepared to deal with the specificities of your league's scoring system. Be prepared on all of the details.
- ^ Don't "punt" categories in a rotisserie league. You must try to be competitive in all areas in order to win.
- ^ Don't assemble too many injury question marks.

Suggested League Guidelines

We recommend that you hold your auction or serpentine-style draft with 10 owners, selecting 12 players (4 guards, 4 forwards, 2 centers). In case of an auction, use a financial system that allots an average of $11 per player.

Our preferred style of play is head-to-head rotisserie, in which teams compete on a week-to-week head-up basis. Recommended categories are points, rebounds, assists, steals, blocks, 3-pointers, 3-point percentage, field goal percentage, free throw percentage and least turnovers. First place in each category would yield 10 points, second place 9 points, etc.

A rotating tiebreaker category should be utilized in the case of a 5-5 category tie. The starting lineup should consist of 2 guards, 2 forwards and 1 center.

That NBA Lottery Pick 2015-16 Season Preview

By Rick Morris/The FDH Lounge

Over the past few years, ThatNBALotteryPick.com Managing Editor Ben Chew has overseen the site's occupation of the intersection of basketball and pop culture. He weighs in on the pressing issues of the 2015-16 NBA season.

Q: In the Eastern Conference, per discussions that you and I have had, Toronto might be a team that could make a long run in the Eastern Conference playoffs – of course, we thought that last year! Between the Raptors, Miami with their young-and-old flux, the regressing-to-the-mean Hawks, the ostensibly "we learned how to the ostensibly "we learned how to win" Wizards, the talented-but-raw Bucks, the unique combination of mediocrity and depth that is the Celtics and anyone else, is there anyone poised to provide even a moment's heartburn to the Cavs if they stay healthy?

A: As the Eastern Conference looks much better from last season, the top tier of teams – with Toronto, Miami and Washington – don't seem, at first glance, to cause much trouble for Cleveland. Toronto had the deepest team outside of Cleveland in the East and the acquisitions of Luis Scola and DeMarre Carroll will have them poised to make a run. Miami could be the dark horse of all of the Eastern teams, since they have a healthy Chris Bosh and the emergence of Hassan Whiteside will definitely cause issues if they face Cleveland in the playoffs.

Q: Among the East's bottom-feeders, is anyone poised for a run at the playoffs, or at least a step up from where they've been?

A: At first glance, you would probably say the Orlando Magic, with their young talented team, but I'm going in a different direction: with the Charlotte Hornets. They fell off a little bit of last season and the injury to Michael Kidd-Gilchrist will loom large. However, they have a solid roster, which includes rookie Frank Kaminsky, Jeremy Lin, and Nicolas Batum. While this might not look like much, there is an outside chance with the depth of talent and coaching from Steve Clifford, that they could make noise in the playoffs.

Q: In the West, how likely is it that anyone breaks through what appears early on to be a stranglehold by the last two league champions? And how would they, or anyone else, match up with an angry Cavs team out to prove what they can do at full strength in the Finals?

A: At this point, the West has plenty of talented teams who can make the leap to championship contenders. With a short list of San Antonio, Oklahoma City, Los Angeles Clippers, Houston Rockets and last year's champions, the Golden State Warriors. Almost every team will most likely cause issues for Cleveland just on talent levels alone, but one thing to note is that the road to the Western Conference crown is much more difficult than in the East.

Q: With an intriguing new coach in Billy Donovan, Kevin Durant returning from troubling lower-body injuries just in time for his walk year and with Russell Westbrook having risen to megastardom in his absence, OKC may be the team with the greatest amount of questions of any contender. How do you see their season materializing?

A: Oklahoma City has had one of the more disappointing runs in recent memory, due to mustering only one Finals appearance with the sheer star power that they've had with Westbrook, Durant and (previously) Harden. Donovan will be an upgrade from Scott Brooks, from at least an offensive standpoint. Expect to see some better player movement in the offense. Since Durant's coming back from one of the worst injuries of his career, expect him to play well, but also cautiously. He'll be allowed to do that, since Westbrook can probably lead OKC to most victories. The major question for them is their bench and if Enes Kanter was worth all the money he earned with his new contract. Another thing to note is Durant's impending free agency and if OKC will feel pressured to match any offer for their premier talent. Expect the Thunder to compete in the West, but considering that they haven't broken through yet, I think they could be fated to rank alongside the 90s Magic and 80s Rockets for best teams to never win a championship in their

Q: Are there any young teams like Minnesota or Utah poised to make a surprise run at the #8 seed in the playoffs?

A: Both Minnesota and Utah will have opportunities to make the playoffs but Utah has the better shot at making them. The improved play of Rudy Gobert and the Burk(e)s will definitely cause some issues for many teams in the Association. Expect also to see contributions from Raul Neto and Tibor Pleiss. Give credit to head coach Quin Snyder and GM Dennis Lindsey for helping to mold this young team and expect to see plenty talk of Gordon Heyward for Most Improved Player this season.

Q: What are some of the other big stories you're looking at in this, the final year before the salary cap makes that quantum leap?

A: While the free agency class won't be as stacked as last season's, it will be interesting to see how teams will be spending their money.

Two other things to note will be in regards to the length of games and possible expansion in the next five years. Although expansion isn't on the table at the moment, I am hard-pressed to believe that the league isn't looking at many cities for future teams. There are many cities in the market for teams, including Seattle, St. Louis, Kansas City, Vancouver, Montreal, Louisville and Las Vegas. The playoff formatting change with division winners not guaranteed a top-four slot could lead to the league eliminating divisions and just leaving the two conferences in place. If we go to the only-conference format, expect 2-4 more teams to be in existence before 2020.

With the introduction of the timeout clock and the removal of lengthy timeouts, expect games to pick up in pace. There will also be decisions on how many games teams will subsequently play in the regular season and preseason.

College Hoops Fantasy Team Game Suggested Guidelines & Draft Board

- ^ A standard serpentine-style draft serves as the best place to begin.
- ^ The ideal distribution of talent would be as follows: 5 teams drafted by 8 owners, 6 teams drafted by 7 owners, 7 teams drafted by 6 owners or 8 teams drafted by 5 owners.
- ^ Points should be divided equally between success in the regular season/conference tournaments and in the NCAA tournament.
- ^ Regular season point distribution should come in the form of a "snapshot" of the Associated Press Top 25 poll on the following dates: December 7, January 11, January 26, February 8, February 22 and March 8. On those dates, points would be allocated in the following manner: 1st place (100 points), 2nd place (94 points), 3rd place (91 points), 4th place (88 points), 5th place (85 points), 6th place (78 points), 7th place (75 points), 8th place (72 points), 9th place (68 points), 10th place (65 points), 11th place (58 points), 12th place (55 points), 13th place (52 points), 14th place (48 points), 15th place (45 points), 16th place (40 points), 17th place (36 points), 18th place (32 points), 19th place (28 points), 20th place (25 points), 21th place (22 points), 22nd place (18 points), 23rd place (15 points), 24th place (12 points), 25th place (10 points). Additionally, 90 points are to be awarded to the winner of a regular season conference title and an additional 90 points to the winner of a conference title tournament.
- ^ The other half of the points, in the form of NCAA tournament points, are to be distributed as follows: 50 points for qualifying for the tournament, 100 points for one of your teams qualifying as a #1, #2, #3, #4 seed in any region, 40 points for qualifying as a #5, #6, #7 or #8 seed in any region, 40 points for winning a firstround tournament game, 75 points for winning a second-round tournament game, 150 points for winning a third-round tournament game, 175 for winning a regional final game, 250 points for winning a national semifinal game and 500 points for winning the national title.
- ^ NOTE: The number in the "Rk" category is the team's average in a composite of major poll rankings.

ROUND 1: This is later than CP3 has usually gone in most drafts in recent years, but it's hard to argue with the spot given the depth of talent at the top. This is the first year that Unibrow really had a chance to go first overall, and it's probably the first of many.

ROUND 2: We tend to see this way more in our football or hockey drafts, not so much with hoops, but there was a huge run on synergy! Mike P paired up the Golden State big duo, while Jason did the same with the Clippers and Samm with the Cavs.

This draft was held on September 24, 2015, with the point guidelines listed on Page 4 serpentine draftmaster style. Position selections were as follows: 5G. 5F, Participants were as follows: 1 FDH Niche Sports Contributor Mike Vili 2 FDH Lounge Dignitary Jeff Maslanich 3 FDH Entertainment Editor Samantha Jones 4 That NBA Lottery Managing Editor Ben Chew 5 FDH Senior Editor Jason Jones 6 FDH Managing Partner Rick Morris 7 FDH Lounge Motorsports Editor Mike Ptak 8 FDH Lounge Dignitary Kyle Ross 9 FDH Director of Research Nate Noy Sportsology proprietor Russ

Cohen

ROUND 3: Samm actually kept her Cavs run going, although she reached a bit on Kyrie, who is unlikely to be ready by the opener. Ben gobbled up some nice value with Chandler.

ROUND 4: It took until now for Kyle to dip into the shallow guard pool. Rudy Gay was a very good value for Rick. By adding Ibaka to Jordan and Randolph, Nate should dominate rebounds.

ROUND 5: Evans, Horford and Ariza were all amazing values here.

ROUND 6: Nate was in dire need of backcourt help, but in all fairness, how do you pass on a value like Middleton?

ROUND 7: Two very interesting trends continued here: Samm paired up Mozgov with her Cavs "Big Three" and Mike P took his second rookie!

ROUND 8: As depth waned at guard, we saw six consecutive picks at the position!

ROUNDS 9-12: How the mighty have fallen: Wade, J Johnson, Pierce, Parker and Rondo.

David Blatt Brings Browns Fan Idiocy To The NBA Finals

By Rick Morris/The FDH Lounge

As terrestrial sports talk radio in the 21st century has devolved into a spiral of trolling, hot takes and "debate embracing," my hometown of Cleveland in particular has worked mightily to spin horse manure material into broadcast fodder. Sadly, this serves as a perfect analogy for what the Browns have foisted on the world autumn after autumn. But it also involves the Browns by and large, usually in the service of a quarterback debate that nobody with half a brain could possibly think carries any weight whatsoever.

Jeff Garcia vs. Kelly Holcomb! Charlie Frye vs. Trent Dilfer! Charlie Frye vs. Derek Anderson! Derek Anderson vs. Brady Quinn! Colt McCoy vs. Brandon Weeden! Brandon Weeden vs. Jason Campbell! Johnny Manziel vs. Brian Hoyer! Johnny Manziel vs. Josh McCown! It's an unending cycle of pointless debates, almost all of them in the last decade alone (Tim Couch vs. Kelly Holcomb is exempted from this list, because there is no debate to anyone who knows anything about football: Couch was way better than that scrub Holcomb and only had his career cut short by an arm injury).

However, the airwaves of Cleveland radio are always clogged by mouth-breathers who are convinced that salvation lies with one of these choads or another. That's not to say that there's not a better reason to play one or the other at times; for example, Manziel definitely needs to play his way in or out of town in 2015 and that is a logical point to make. But to act like any of these guys are or ever have been savior material? Sigh. No wonder the rest of the country makes fun of us every chance they get.

And in one of very many surprising developments of the Cavs' run to the 2015 NBA Finals, this same putrid level of "debate" materialized, with the same turgid components of desperation and denial, a sense that David Blatt had it in his hands to win or lose the NBA Finals based on a simple decision at center in Game 5. No, basketball fans elsewhere, this is not a joke.

Let's rewind to set this up properly. Minus two-thirds of the "Big Three" due to injury, the heavy underdog Cavs miraculously battled to a 2-1 series lead. Personally, my friends and I were in delirious disbelief, having no idea how the Cavs had surmounted the huge talent and depth disparity without their stalwarts. We knew simply that the Cavs had to win Game Four; drop that one and the spell is broken and certain doom returns.

Unfortunately, the inevitable happened in the form of an ugly 103-82 loss on the home court. The lone bright spot, seemingly, was the offensively-challenged version of the team that remained was paced by a monster 28-point, 10-rebound performance from center Timofey Mosgov.

However, David Blatt peered a bit deeper than the surface stats when discerning the lessons of the game. You see, Andrew Bogut, the Warrior center who had been decimated by Mosgov through the first three games, was benched for most of the game by Golden State coach Steve Kerr. As such, Mosgov was a bit out of place on the floor with the Warriors going small. Yes, his -5 number was the least terrible of any Cleveland player, but the fact remained that the team was underwater with him on the floor.

So Mozgov, in turn, was largely benched in Game Five and was completely unable to get into rhythm in his paltry 9:19 of action: no points or rebounds and a -4 (again, less horrific than anyone else, except for Mike Miller with his inexplicable +6 and James Jones with his equally inexplicable +1).

To any fair-minded person with an ounce of intelligence, none of this could be laid at Blatt's feet. He was completely out of bullets and could be trumped by Kerr's decisions any time that the Golden State coach wanted to (and apparently, he didn't want to in Games Two and Three with his boneheaded lack of adjustments). The Cavs were blown out with Mozgov going off and they were blown out with him being largely invisible. This was just the inevitable cruelly reasserting itself – right?

Nah, not so much if you were unfortunate enough to subject your ears to Cleveland radio in the aftermath of that performance. With the same passion that they might argue for the Hall of Fame status of Kelly Holcomb, half-wits all around town were coming out of the woodwork to posit that Blatt blew Game Five. "I mean, how do ya bench a guy who went 28-and-10 the game before? You tell me that [overlapping belching and butt-scratching noises ensue]!"

Ah yes, welcome to Cleveland, where there's always a mythical savior who could have accomplished the impossible and a bullheaded bonehead who just refused to do "what seemed so obvious!" In fairness, there were also many talk show callers completely in favor of Blatt's decision – and they, too, were probably at least somewhat off the mark as well. While his reasoning was sound, how could you completely buy in one way or another? The deck was completely stacked, after all and to believe that Blatt had all the answers is just the mirror image of what the know-nothings propagated.

But therein lies the point. Self-delusion can cloud you from seeing the obvious, regardless of sport or situation. If one quarterback is stinking it up, it doesn't mean that the joke on the bench would have delivered you to the playoffs. And when a coach is reduced to praying for miracles and for the other coach to remain asleep through the rest of the NBA Finals, it doesn't mean that his decisions blew a championship when the chariot turned back into a pumpkin at midnight.

We've endured 51 years and counting without a major championship in this town, something unprecedented in the "Big Four" sports era and a span much larger than my entire lifetime. When the Phillies won the World Series in 2008 and ESPN's Jayson Stark was on our FDH Lounge program discussing Philly's 25-year drought, I joked with him that I felt like a criminal in a hokey old movie. "25 years? I could do that standing on my head!"

But the psychosis that this tapestry has bred in the region makes the run seem like at least 151 years. We do this to ourselves. We invent controversies so that we can lie to ourselves with "if only" scenarios. Sometimes, life just sucks. Sometimes you have a football team that has been hands-down the worst in the league over an extended period of time and there are no quick and easy answers. And sometimes, the "Dream Team" that you have assembled to win a championship – with a 33-3 run to end the regular season and a 12-2 glide all the way through the Eastern Conference playoffs – loses necessary components to injury and you're a sitting duck for a team with the perfect combination of skill and luck. Regardless of what any charlatans on the dying medium of terrestrial radio may incite you to say so that they can fill their phone banks, sometimes there just are no easy answers.

Correlation of Top Players to NBA Titles

This list correlates to the rankings of present players on Page 14. Top-tier players are defined as those very few capable of winning a championship without a fellow super-elite player. The second tier represents players who were at an All-Star level at the time. Each year's champions are examined separately; for example, you will notice that Magic Johnson's star teammates were rated at different levels at different points of the 1980s dynasty. This list helps to go beyond the cliches about superstar players and their surrounding cast on championship teams to identify the specific dynamics most and least at play. It is interesting as well to study the anomalies on the list, the combinations of star players that have led to the least titles during these ver
