FANTASY HOOPS -AND SO MUCH MORE

Top 50 Players Regardless of Position

Draft Board Decoder

The FantasyDrafthelp.com draft board contains all the relevant information you need right at your fingertips.

- * Players are color-coded by their value by round in a 10-team draft. 1st round is gold, 2nd round silver, 3rd round bronze, 4th round orange and 5th round light blue.
- * The "Stat" column shows how each player performed on our standard deviation from the mean statistic in 2014-15 (stat details on Page 2).
- * Relevant 2015-16 statistical categories are listed, along with rankings for each, the number of games played and rankings in the aforementioned "Stat" category.

The 21st Century Media Alliance

What initially began in 2009 as a small coalition of like-minded growing New Media and creative organizations has flourished into a well-rounded creative juggernaut of more than two dozen entities that transcends the notion of traditional labeling. The 21st Century Media Alliance is an umbrella of cooperative companies and professionals that is pursuing many synergistic opportunities and projects. Possessed of varying yet often complementary skill sets, Alliance members are bound by their core principles of inventiveness, communication, pragmatism and dedication to their efforts and those of the larger group. In a great many creative areas, if you're looking to have a job performed the right way, chances are that you need look no further than The 21st Century Media Alliance.

2016-17 Fantasy Overview

^ Last year, the guard crop was deeper than forward as a whole. This year, there's no difference at the #1 level and the depth edge certainly is at forward through four tiers, but in the late rounds, the guards dominate. So don't get caught flat-footed when the forwards evaporate in the end stages of your draft. ^ More than half of the owners (six) in a 10-team league will end up with a top-flight center, assuming that nobody grabs two. But for those who miss out, patience is very necessary, with a second tier that extends all the way to #19. almost unprecedented in modern times.

Overvalued Players of 2016

Undervalued Players of 2016

Guards: Tony Allen, Avery Bradley, Giannis Antetokounmpo, Monta Ellis, Kentavious Caldwell-Pope, JJ Redick, Rajon Rondo, Ricky Rubio

Forwards: Trevor Ariza, Kent Bazemore, DeMarre Carroll, Robert Covington, Jae Crowder, Kenneth Faried, Amir Johnson, Otto Porter, Julius Randle, Thaddeus Young Centers: Andre Drummond, Dwight Howard, DeAndre Jordan, Nerlens Noel

2016-17 Fantasy Sleepers

Guards: Jordan Clarkson, Gary Harris, Buddy Hield

Forwards: Jabari Parker, Otto Porter Centers: Jonas Valanciunas

Rk Don't Be That Guy

- ^ Don't sleep on stat-sheet fillers who aren't as wellpublicized as some of the megastars. Examples include Nicolas Batum, Marco Belinelli and Jose Calderon.
- ^ Don't show up unprepared to deal with the specificities of your league's scoring system. Be prepared on all of the details.
- ^ Don't "punt" categories in a rotisserie league. You must try to be competitive in all areas in order to win.
- ^ Don't assemble too many injury question marks.

Suggested League Guidelines We recommend that you hold your auction or serpentinestyle draft with 10 owners.

selecting 12 players (4 guards, 4 forwards, 2 centers). In case of an auction, use a financial system that allots an average of $11 per player.

Our preferred style of play is head-to-head rotisserie. in which teams compete on a week-to-week head-up basis. Recommended categories are points, rebounds, assists, steals, blocks, 3-pointers, 3point percentage, field goal percentage, free throw percentage and least turnovers. First place in each category would yield 10 points, second place 9 points, etc.

A rotating tiebreaker category should be utilized in the case of a 5-5 category tie. The starting lineup should consist of 2 guards, 2 forwards and 1 center.

^ The ideal distribution of talent would be as follows: 5 teams drafted by 8 owners, 6 teams drafted by 7 owners, 7 teams drafted by 6 owners or 8 teams drafted by 5 owners.

^ Points should be divided equally between success in the regular season/conference tournaments and in the NCAA tournament.

^ Regular season point distribution should come in the form of a "snapshot" of the Associated Press Top 25 poll on the following dates: December 5, January 9, January 23, February 6, February 20 and March 6. On those dates, points would be allocated in the following manner: 1st place (100 points), 2nd place (94 points), 3rd place (91 points), 4th place (88 points), 5th place (85 points), 6th place (78 points), 7th place (75 points), 8th place (72 points), 9th place (68 points), 10th place (65 points), 11th place (58 points), 12th place (55 points), 13th place (52 points), 14th place (48 points), 15th place (45 points), 16th place (40 points), 17th place (36 points), 18th place (32 points), 19th place (28 points), 20th place (25 points), 21th place (22 points), 22nd place (18 points), 23rd place (15 points), 24th place (12 points), 25th place (10 points). Additionally, 90 points are to be awarded to the winner of a regular season conference title and an additional 90 points to the winner of a conference title tournament.

^ The other half of the points, in the form of NCAA tournament points, are to be distributed as follows: 50 points for qualifying for the tournament, 100 points for one of your teams qualifying as a #1, #2, #3, #4 seed in any region, 40 points for qualifying as a #5, #6, #7 or #8 seed in any region, 40 points for winning a first-round tournament game, 75 points for winning a second-round tournament game, 150 points for winning a third-round tournament game, 175 for winning a regional final game, 250 points for winning a national semifinal game and 500 points for winning the national

ROUND 1: There were no real reaches or surprises here, with the closest one perhaps being Samm taking Harden, but it's not uncommon to see him taken this high in 2016.

ROUND 2: A mini-run on centers materialized early in the round.

ROUND 3: Russ reached a bit to put the Golden State combo together. Kyle got a nice value with Rubio, who forms the best 1-2 punch at PG of any team.

ROUND 4: Kenneth Faried proved to be a great value for Ben.

ROUND 5: Jeff, Kyle and Rick went on a value binge later in the round. Mike P got unlucky with the Hayward injury after the draft ROUND 6: Jeff scoops up great value again with Young. Hield is a high-upside pick for Mike P.

ROUND 7: Jeff and Rick end up with the last players on the FDH Top 50 Overall here.

ROUND 8: There was an early run on centers, but it dried up quickly.

ROUNDS 9-12: Amid the predictable crop of young players and centers, Nate made an intriguing play on the health of Ben Simmons.

This draft was held on October 1, 2016, with the guidelines listed on Page 4 serpentine draftmaster style. Position selections were as follows: 5G, 5F, 2C. Participants were as follows: 1 FDH Senior Editor Jason Jones 2 That NBA Lottery Pick Managing Editor Ben Chew 3 FDH Niche Sports Contributor Mike Vili 4 FDH Entertainment Editor Samantha Jones Sportsology proprietor Cohen 6 FDH Lounge Motorsports Editor Mike Ptak 7 FDH Lounge Dignitary Jeff Maslanich FDH Lounge Dignitary Kyle Ross 9 FDH Managing Partner Rick Morris 10 FDH Director of Research Nate Noy

The Meaning of The Cavs' Championship

By Rick Morris/The FDH Lounge

Wonderment at the year 2016 has already become a cliché, especially in social media, with almost one-quarter of the year remaining. It takes different forms in different arenas:

- ^ Politically, it generally takes the form of despair, as chaos, heartbreaking bloodshed and the two least-popular general election nominees of recent times have led to a constant, cynical mood of "What's next?"
- ^ In pop culture, it gets invoked as "Who's next?" We've lost countless icons this year, notably in the category of music, but pretty much all across the landscape.
- ^ And in sports, it has come to incredible signify championships from franchises given the silly-but-persistent tag of "cursed." Leicester City was perhaps the most unlikely Premier League Champions of all time and also overseas, the Western Bulldogs went on a miracle run to capture their first Australian Football League Premiership since their banner of 1954 (coincidentally and happily, when I got back into the AFL some years ago, I began rooting for the Bulldogs, identifying with their long (Continued on Page 10)

The Meaning of The Cavs' Championship

(Continued From Page 9) struggle and loyal, blue-collar predominantly fanbase). And most notably in America. the Cleveland Cavaliers ended the city's 52year reign of futility going back to the last Browns title of 1964. It is that one that we address here as this is a basketball publication and I just happen to be a lifelong Clevelander and Cavs fan.

As the Cavs begin their unprecedented campaign to defend a championship, the ability to comprehend the full meaning of the journey to the is still title not fully understood nationally - and it may never be. Certainly, in the moment, ABC's Mike Breen did all that broadcaster could to convey the emotions that we Cavs fans felt at the final buzzer of Game 7, the abuse that we'd long taken from other fanbases about being losers who supported losers and the many heartbreaks that we'd faced through this decades-long run of futility in the town's three major sports (four, when you count the few years of the Cleveland Crusaders in the WHL and the Cleveland Barons in the NHL). Breen's preparation for that moment his commitment and painting as full of a picture as humanly possible admirable - but no statement was as true as the one about people not being able to completely comprehend (Continued on Page 11)

The Meaning of The Cavs' Championship

(Continued From Page 10) what this moment meant unless you were one of us. To similar degrees, ESPN's Believeland documentary gave some sense nationally of what the vast hunger for a championship really meant, but it too was limiting in the ability of not being able to artificially inject the passion into those trying understand us.

The different levels meaning begin with franchise itself, having been in existence since 1970. Super-lean early years gave way to the "Miracle of Richfield" 1976, in shocking run to the Eastern Conference Finals that ended prematurely due to an injury to star center Jim Chones. Later near-misses (including "The Shot") against the powerful Bulls of the late 1980s and early 1990s were devastating, because no less an authority than Magic Johnson pronounced Price-Daugherty-Nance-Hot Rod-Harper Cavs "The Team of the '90s." But then team owner Gordon Gund decided that Ron Harper had to go, Mark Price and Brad Daugherty saw their careers cut short by injury and the window slammed shut.

with no connections to the area choosing to come to town, as Kevin Love engineered a trade to form a new "Big Three."

The two-year journey to the championship was rough from start to finish, as new Cavs coach David Blatt was put in the winnow circumstance that Lebron's presence demanded, rather than the slow rebuild that he had been hired to generate. Additionally, severe injuries to Irving and Love doomed the Cavs in the 2015 Finals and all of these factors created a hangover into the following season, leading to a fitful reintegration into the team by Kyrie and the shocking end of Blatt's tenure. New coach Tyronn Lue, however, began learning how to press the right buttons and he was able to channel the adversity of the previous 23 months into leveraging the tenacity to overcome the greatest regular-season team in NBA history that was brandishing a 3-1 lead in the Finals.

But unlike other championships in other cities, the joy went well beyond the franchise. Yes, Red Sox fans had gone from 1918 to 2004 without a World Series title, but they'd racked up over two dozen titles in the other major sports over that period of time. The same holds true with long-suffering Cubs fans, who have had the Bears, Blackhawks and, especially in recent decades, the aforementioned Bulls to give them joy. There are many examples of this, with fanbases cherry-picking a particular kind of heartbreak even as they celebrated other championships.

Correlation of Top Players to NBA Titles

This list correlates to the rankings of present players on Page 14. Top-tier players are defined as those very few capable of winning a championship without a fellow super-elite player. The second tier represents players who were at an All-Star level at the time. Each year's champions are examined separately; for example, you will notice that Magic Johnson's star teammates were rated at different levels at different points of the 1980s dynasty. This list helps to go beyond the cliches about superstar players and their surrounding cast on championship teams to identify the specific dynamics most and least at play. It is interesting as well to study the anomalies on the list, the combinations of star players that have led to the least titles during these years.

The Meaning of The Cavs' Championship (Continued From Page 12)

Browns and Indians teams at the worst moments, went a long way towards acquainting the wider world with the full depth of what we fans have endured over the past decades. 52 years of such futility, with so many colorful downfalls, is unlikely to be repeated anytime in the future for a city with more than two franchises in major American sports. Consider that the closest that any city came recently was Philadelphia's drought of 25 years – less than half of Cleveland's – from 1983 to 2008, with a tiny fraction of the "woulda, coulda, shoulda" near-misses that Cleveland endured.

But it's not even so much the championship itself, as amazing as it was, that completely defined the moment. It was also the end of the era of anticipated misery. Believeland did do a good job of portraying how we the fans would always get up for one of the team's big runs and how we would buy in, only to feel the knife-blade of disappointment in the end and then question ourselves as to how we could have fallen for it again. As if to signal that this time was different, the Cavs created an "All-In" marketing campaign that was more profound than it might have seemed. It really took off on Cleveland social media, as fans never missed an opportunity to tag their posts with #AllIn. Several weeks after the championship, catching up with a married couple with Cavs season tickets that I'm friends with, the wife admitted that she really wanted to be "All In," but that there was a tiny piece of her holding back out of fear of having her heart broken again. When I said to her, "We never have to feel that way again; now we can believe that anything is possible," she smiled broadly and nodded. That's the kind of transformation that this title brought to us all, the lifting of that brutal weight.

And it was that transformation that so many of us felt right afterward, reaching out to our friends and crying those tears of joy. In a way that I never anticipated, I felt that it bound me to my friends even more, those shared memories of pain now washed away with the rapturous joy of a championship – and the knowledge that it could only mean that much to those of us with the shared DNA of so much failure over time. In those moments of great happiness, we were speaking a language that the outside world simply could not understand, no matter the honest efforts of Mike Breen or Believeland to convey it to them. As the saying goes, you had to be there.

For many of us, there was also the phantom limb effect, the inability to share the moment personally with those we loved who did not live to see it. Very poignantly, a wonderful man from my monthly poker club missed the victory by less than 24 hours, perishing from a heart attack the evening before. Those of us who made it to the finish line should never take for granted how lucky we were.

But it's impossible for any of these imperfections to wash away the enormity of the moment and the absolute positive nature of it. The grinches of the world who refuse to see the positivity of sports had to be willfully blind on the day of the victory parade, with 1.3 million people amassing for by far the biggest celebration in the region's history (one of the top 70 peaceful gatherings in human history, according to Wikipedia). We see every day how sports reflects the underbelly of society and human nature in ways that disgust us, unfortunately. But in the joy that it brings us in its finest moments and how it brings us together like few things ever do, we would do well to remember the other side of the coin as well. In the end, remarkably and after more sports misery than anyone would have thought possible, it is Cleveland that delivers that message of triumph and unity more powerfully than anyone could have imagined.
