* The "Stat" column shows how each player performed on our standard deviation from the mean statistic in 2016-17 (stat details on Page 2).
* Relevant 2016-17 statistical categories are listed, along with rankings for each, the number of games played and rankings in the aforementioned "Stat" category.
* NOTE: To better reflect how leagues are now conducted, all forwards are rated together, albeit with positional notations.

Evaluating Production Across a Spectrum: Lessons Of Our Proprietary Ultimate Quantitative Baseline Stat

Our "UQB" category (Ultimate Quantitative Baseline) on our draft board calculates the standard deviation from the mean in all relevant hockey categories. In simple English, imagine a spectrum going across from left to right, with negative numbers on the left side, a "zero" in the middle and positive numbers on the right side. We utilize this statistic for football, baseball, basketball, hoops and NASCAR as well as hockey. For hockey, we use all of the standard fantasy categories listed on the draft board to factor in for this statistical compilation. A player's performance in each category is plotted on one of these spectrums, with the most valuable players putting up most of their numbers on the most of their numbers on the positive side. Then, we add up the totals of every category, positive and negative. By using this tool, we can identify not merely how they performed, but how valuable their performances were in each category. Truly, this statistic serves as the ultimate baseline for the previous season's production.

Scott Pullins: "I have spent my career, both as an attorney, and otherwise, in roles where I help people break down and solve complex problems. After a consultation, you will be put on the path toward resolution of your issue. I will either recommend that you retain me to resolve your issue, I will recommend a trusted colleague, or I will offer some other solution, sometimes even free or at a lower cost than a private attorney, in order to assist you."

2017-18 Fantasy Overview

^ There's a bit less depth on the blue line than last year in the top tier and the dropoff from the top tier to the second one is significant, so try to get one of those top five.
^ The depth at goalie is weaker in the first and second-tier levels than it was a year ago (albeit the third tier is deeper), so you may not be able to wait until late in your draft to complete your work there.
^ The top few tiers of forwards are a bit thinner than in past years, so prepare accordingly.

Suggested League Guidelines

We recommend that you hold your auction or serpentine-style draft with 10 owners, selecting 18 players (6 defensemen, 3 goalies, 3 left wings, 3 centers, 3 right wings). In case of an auction, use a financial system that allots an average of $11 per player.

Our preferred style of play is head-to-head roto, in which teams compete on a week-to-week head-up basis. Recommended categories are points, goals, assists, penalty minutes and plus-minus for forwards and defensemen and wins, least losses, shutouts, goals-against-average and save percentage for goalies. A rotating tiebreaker category should be utilized in the case of a 5-5 category tie. The starting lineup should consist of 2 goalies, 2 left wings, 2 centers, 2 right wings and 4 defensemen.

Don't Be That Guy

At your draft or auction, Don't Be That Guy who:

^ Doesn't properly understand his league's scoring system. Have the specific parameters down before you go to select your players.

^ Relies on a publication such as The Hockey News that doesn't have a draft board. Can you imagine such a thing?

^ Gets caught at the tail end of a run at a position: specifically, #2 defensemen should not be confused with the #1s.

^ Doesn't put enough emphasis on goal-scorers as opposed to assist-talliers. As is always the case in fantasy sports, scarcity leads to value.

2017 FDH Hockey Mock Draft Analysis

Round 1: This year, the order at the top was McDavid over Crosby. Jeff, Rick and Tim moved away from the run on forwards towards the end of the round.
Round 2: Jeff and Rick went against the grain by staying away from forwards again.
Round 3: Jason, Mike V and Mike P established amazing first lines at forward.
Round 4: Four rounds, three Hawks for Nate; four rounds, four Penguins for Samm. Wow!
Round 5: Jason's faith in goalie and defense depth was proven correct.
Round 6: After waiting through the first four rounds, Tim went back-to-back for defensemen and came out just fine.
Round 7: Jason's move for a second goalie at the end of the 6th round started a run that included Jon, Samm, Jeff, Rick and Russ.
Round 8: Tim, Mike V, Jeff, Samm, Nate and Jason established this as the "how the mighty have fallen" round.
Rounds 9-12: A decent run on forwards in the 9th round set the stage for mostly defensemen to be drafted in the last three rounds.

A Plan To Improve The NHL & NBA Regular Seasons

By Rick Morris/The FDH Lounge

I've long been interested in the idea of what the NHL and NBA could do during the winter to break up the long, grey slog of their 82-game slates. My idea is one that is unlikely to ever go forward, but it is one that could cause both hockey and hoops fans to look forward to individual nights during the week just a bit more.

It involves the two leagues striking a deal to have their "own nights" from Monday-Thursday. Friday-Sunday would work well as a "free for all" that maintains the present format. But, for the sake of argument, the NBA would claim Mondays and Wednesdays as (mostly) exclusive, with every team in the league playing, and the NHL would claim Tuesdays and Thursdays as (mostly) exclusive, with 30 of the 31 teams playing.

The exceptions to the rule would involve the national TV contracts. Exclusivity need not be absolute for these purposes in order to bring more intrigue to the weeknight schedule. If the NBA played one or two nationally-televised games on an "NHL night" and the NHL did likewise on "NBA nights," then fans of the one league would still get a full slate while fans of the other league would still get a small taste to satiate their appetites until the big haul the next night.

For the NBA, the TNT deal can still work with two exclusive games on Thursday nights and there's little to nothing that would need to change with the ESPN, ABC and NBATV deals. ESPN and NBATV could get a couple of Tuesday games in there at various times.

For the NHL, the Wednesday night deal could either stay on that night as the equivalent of the TNT Thursday night NBA slate, providing a feature game or two on the NHL's "off night," or it could move to Tuesdays or Thursdays on the NHL's "full night," with NBCSN and the NHL Network claiming other nights during the week as they see fit within their contractual rights. NBC would still do pretty much what they're doing now.

While the majority of teams in both leagues don't share arenas, there are enough that do use the same facility that this demarcation between game nights would make scheduling far easier for everyone involved. Additionally, even for teams in the same market with different arenas, like the Twin Cities or Phoenix, keeping both of them off of the same night should help increase the gate for each of them. And generally having more clarity about what the landscape looks like during weeknights in the winter might add a bit more excitement to regular seasons that can often be plodding in both the NHL and NBA.
