THE TOP 75 PLAYERS IN PRO BASKETBALL HISTORY
The NBA's 75th Anniversary has prompted a wave of Best-Of lists, but few with the substance to reinforce the selections. Authors Rick Morris, Ben Chew and Russ Cohen came together to create a list of the top 75 pro basketball players ever, with evidence to justify the placement of each -- as well as biographical details, comparisons of various legends, little-known-but-interesting tidbits, what-if scenarios and much more. Additionally, the book includes our year-by-year ranking of the top players in pro basketball and rosters for hypothetical "Olympic Dream Teams" had they existed prior to 1992. This is a book that is crafted for sports fans who are interested in learning more about the rich history of pro basketball. Available on Amazon.com

FDH Draft Philosophy: Value With Every Pick!

We at FantasyDrafthelp.com always emphasize the wisdom of our VIP approach to drafting: information and process lead to value. Of course, value is the single most important component of drafting or auctions. Even in the fantasy industry, this point is often overlooked.

In most cases, titles are won by patiently accruing value throughout a draft or auction. During the Information stage, fantasy owners compile information about players at individual positions. Process involves comparison of players across all of the positions.

We put a tremendous amount of hard work into our draft board, and you do as well. As such, you need to trust the fruits of these labors and adhere to your draft board as much as possible. The surest way to be able to extract maximum value is to prepare extensively ahead of time and then refrain from jumping around on the board on Draft Day. Approach the draft with an actuarial mindset, determined to squeeze maximum value out of every pick, and you will be poised for success.

NOTE: For fantasy and non-fantasy purposes throughout this guide, we are assuming a significant suspension for Deshaun Watson.

Draft Board Decoder

The FantasyDrafthelp.com draft board contains all the relevant information you need right at your fingertips. For example, in terms of QB, RB, WR and TE:

^ Players are color-coded by their value by round in a 12-team draft. 1st round is gold, 2nd round silver, 3rd round bronze, 4th round orange and 5th round light blue.

^ $ denotes the dollar value in auction leagues.

^ The "Exp" column displays where each player placed in an "experts consensus board" of top fantasy magazines and websites.

^ The "Stat" column shows how each player performed on our standard deviation from the mean statistic in 2021 (stat details on Page 4).

^ 2021 yardage and TD totals are listed, along with rankings for each and rankings in the aforementioned "Stat" category. Also, on the WR and TE boards, "Ctch%" measures the completion percentage of targets to each player. Rushing yards for quarterbacks and receiving yards for running backs are also listed.

^ "Bye" denotes each player's bye week.

FantasyDrafthelp.com Suggested League Guidelines

Many leagues start 1 QB, 2 RB, 2 WR, 1 TE, 1 K and some D/ST combination. Some leagues allow the TE position to be WR or TE (in which case, only a few TEs merit any consideration) and some have a "flex" position, which is generally 1 additional RB or WR. With leagues who utilize defense, some deploy a team D/ST unit and some use individual D players.

The most common scoring system is a variation of the following: 4 points per passing TD, 1 point per 25 yards passing, 1 point per passing 2-point PAT, 6 points per receiving or rushing TD, 1 point per 10 yards rushing or receiving, 2 points per rushing or receiving 2-point PAT, 2 points per "big play touchdown" (50 or more yards), 1 point per kicking PAT, 3 points per FG, with a 1-point bonus at 45 yards, a 2-point bonus at 50 yards and a 3-point bonus at 55 yards, 6 points per defensive or special teams TD, 1 point per interception, sack or fumble recovered and 2 points per safety. In leagues that award 6 points for passing TDs, QBs are worth much more.

Evaluating Production Across a Spectrum: Lessons of "The Stat"

Our "Stat" category on our draft board calculates the standard deviation from the mean in all statistical categories.

Fantasy Over-Under Game & Draft Board

We've come up with yet another permutation on the fantasy football experience at FantasyDrafthelp.com: the Fantasy Over-Under Game. It's based on the projected win totals released every year by the sports books.

For our game, ideally, you have four owners with three standard serpentine rounds. Each owner will take a team to finish either over or under their projected win total. The teams listed on our draft board to the right are considered by us to be the ones most likely to go over or under their projected totals by a decent amount.

Here's the scoring system:

^ Correct by 5 or more games: 25 points

^ Correct by 3-4 games: 16 points

^ Correct by 2 games: 7 points

^ Correct by 1 game: 4 points

^ Right on the win total: 0 points

^ Incorrect by 1 game: -4 points

^ Incorrect by 2 games: -7 points

^ Incorrect by 3-4 games: -16 points

^ Incorrect by 5 or more games: -25 points

Don't Be That Guy

^ Don't be that guy who is unprepared and whines in the mid to late rounds that everyone worth taking is already gone. They're not; you're just unprepared.

^ Don't be that guy who doesn't properly understand your league's scoring system. League setups are like snowflakes; no two are the same. Our draft board is configured to conform to a fairly basic scoring system, but your league could have some quirks that would force you to make adaptations to our board. Be aware.

^ Don't be that guy who doesn't pay enough attention and selects players who are already off the board. It's impolite to your leaguemates and it will invariably break your concentration when everyone howls at you and you've got to go back to Square One on a backup pick. To ensure that you are aware of everything that is going on during your draft, utilize a "grid" to track all teams, with the number of rounds going down the left side and the teams listed along the top.

^ Don't be that guy who approaches the draft like it's a night of epic decision-making. If you've done your homework, it's not. You merely find out where you're drafting and you "let the draft come to you."

2022 Fantasy Overview

^ There are slightly more starting RB jobs up for grabs than in 2019-21, so plan accordingly and place even more emphasis on handcuffing.

^ RB1 and WR1 are about even, but WR2 and WR 3 are WAY deeper.

^ As it was from 2018-20, depth at both #1 QB and #2 QB is very good. Getting two backups maximizes the chance of having the options that you really want – including possible trade bait.

^ TE remains top-heavy in terms of available options. If you don't get one of the top 6 players, just wait and try to obtain 2 backups.

The 2020s Era Of The NFL Begins

By Rick Morris/The FDH Lounge

While, technically, the 2020s in the NFL era are already 20% over (!!!), there's been tremendous continuity from the 2010s. But in many ways, this offseason brought about many changes that will define what we think of in the decades to come when we recall this one. Here they are:

1 New TV teams. After arguably the greatest period of stability amongst the top teams in league history, it all unraveled with one big chain reaction. Joe Buck and Troy Aikman jumping to Disney set the stage for Kevin Burkhardt and (eventually) Tom Brady to take over at FOX, with the excellent Greg Olsen keeping the QB's seat warm. Speaking of keeping the seat warm, NBC decided that Al Michaels was merely doing that for Mike Tirico at this point and so they pulled the trigger on the switch. That set the stage for Michaels to migrate to another huge new development.

2 An exclusive streaming package. Michaels and Kirk Herbstreit are going to call the Thursday night games that will only be seen on Amazon Prime. This is an incredible sea change which will enrage many NFL fans used to network/cable exclusivity. Of course, the league only cares about that sweet, sweet billion per season that Jeff Bezos will be paying them.

3 The continuing eclipse of Bill Belichick. That playoff blowout against the Bills in January said it all: the Bills have Josh Allen and the Pats no longer had Brady. After the 2018 season, when Sean McVay made it to the Super Bowl in his second year, he was already starting to surpass Belichick — who, by the way, won that Super Bowl — as the league's prototype coach. Now, three seasons later with a championship under his belt, the "young genius" mold is almost universally desired. And this trend could shockingly land on Belichick's doorstep in the next few years — so says FDH Lounge Dignitary Chris Galloway on our program — if the years of poor drafting and personnel decisions overseen by Belichick lead Robert Kraft in the direction of a "young genius." Clip and save this analysis.

4 A super-loaded AFC. The NBA has spent much of the 21st Century with an imbalance of power in favor of the Western Conference. Disparities of this nature are much rarer on Sundays, but the AFC is demonstrably deeper — and with Russell Wilson joining a Murderer's Row of quarterbacks, the imbalance looks set to persist for years.

5 Ain't discovery a bitch? With Brian Flores and Jon Gruden pursuing their lawsuits against the league, the skeletons in the closet of the NFL risk being released. Roger Goodell and Company are likely to rue the day that Flores got a sham interview and that Gruden's emails were leaked in a transparent attempt to shift public attention from Dan Snyder's serial wrongdoing.

6 The QB market and megastar contracts regardless of position are forever transformed. While it's easiest to focus on all of the self-inflicted PR wounds surrounding the Browns' acquisition of Deshaun Watson, the effect on other, similar contracts around the league cannot be minimized. It is potentially the most far-reaching development since the dawn of free agency 30 years ago. With $230 million for Watson fully guaranteed — the entire contract and $80 million more than the previous record — a precedent has been set for Lamar Jackson, Joe Burrow, Justin Herbert and many others. The NFL is the last major sport not to have guaranteed money written into contracts and, while it likely will never become standard for the Have-Nots, the Haves are going to fatten up like never before.

Top 10 For The Next 10

The FDH Top 10 for the Next 10 is a list attempting to identify the best players in the league -- not necessarily in a pure fantasy sense -- over the course of the entire next decade. It's not a pure 25-and-under draft, but it skews heavily in that direction because most big-time stars are past their primes sometime in their 30s. Players who are both very young and very skilled already have the biggest edges. We have broken out our list for both Quarterbacks and Non-Quarterbacks, because of the disproportionate importance that passers have in today's game.

Quarterbacks	Non-Quarterbacks
1 Patrick Mahomes	1 Justin Jefferson
2 Joe Burrow	2 Micah Parsons
3 Josh Allen	3 Nick Bosa
4 Justin Herbert	4 Tristan Wirfs
5 Lamar Jackson	5 Ja'Marr Chase
6 Kyler Murray	6 Nick Chubb
7 Trevor Lawrence	7 Chase Young
8 Trey Lance	8 Jonathan Taylor
9 Justin Fields	9 Kyle Pitts

2023 NFL Draft Preview

Coming off of one of the worst NFL Draft QB classes in recent decades, 2023 promises a tremendous rebound with dual-threat passers CJ Stroud of Ohio State and Bryce Young of Alabama. Florida's Anthony Richardson has a chance to join them on that top level.

Also likely in the Top 10, unusual in this day and age due to his immense skill set, is likely to be Texas RB Bijan Robinson. Other elite skill position prospects include WRs Jaxon Smith-Njigba of Ohio State, Jordan Addison of Pittsburgh, Parker Washington of Penn State and TE Michael Mayer of Notre Dame. Up front offensively, Ohio State OT/OG Paris Johnson looms above the rest.

On the edge, Will Anderson of Alabama, BJ Ojulari of LSU and Habukkuk Baldanad of Pittsburgh will be highly coveted. Clemson has a pair of highly-skilled disruptors in the trenches, Bryan Bresee and Myles Murphy.

The secondary boasts a deep crop, with Malachi Moore of Alabama, Kelee Ringo of Georgia, Joey Porter, Jr. of Penn State, Brandon Joseph of Northwestern and Tony Grimes of North Carolina.

Sportsology: Baseball, football, hoops, hockey, pro wrestling, music, it matters not: nobody, but nobody, brinas it stronaer!

THE TOP 75 PLAYERS IN PRO BASKETBALL HISTORY

The NBA's 75th Anniversary has prompted a wave of Best-Of lists, but few with the substance to reinforce the selections. Authors Rick Morris, Ben Chew and Russ Cohen came together to create a list of the top 75 pro basketball players ever, with evidence to justify the placement of each -- as well as biographical details, comparisons of various legends, little-known-but-interesting tidbits, what-if scenarios and much more. Additionally, the book includes our year-by-year ranking of the top players in pro basketball and rosters for hypothetical "Olympic Dream Teams" had they existed prior to 1992. This is a book that is crafted for sports fans who are interested in learning more about the rich history of pro basketball. Available on Amazon.com

ROUND 1: No real first-round surprises. FDH has Chubb as a first-round value, rare in the industry this year, and Mike P agrees.
 ROUND 2: Remember when it used to be standard to go RB-RB in the first two rounds? Well, this year, not one team went down that path.
 ROUND 3: Jon, Jason, Mike P, Russ, Nate, Bob and Jake all diversified across three positions with their first three picks.
 ROUND 4: Expanding upon the theme of the previous round, Mike P, Russ, Nate and Jake selected four positions in the first four rounds!
 ROUND 5: Jason acquired one of the top value picks of the draft in Akers. A bold move for Bob with his third running back!
 ROUND 6: Samm and Russ picked up exquisite value at running back.
 ROUND 7: Big round for Ohio State wide receivers! At the same time, this was a big round for WRs who are part of shaky passing games.
 ROUND 8: Time to snarf up many of the remaining passers. Hopkins is a very calculated risk for Bob.
 ROUNDS 9-12: All of the D/ST and most of the kickers went here. Most interesting names to fall here: Boyd, Edmonds, Claypool and Lockett.

One Run-On Sentence For Each AFC Team

AFC EAST

Buffalo: The second consecutive postseason loss to KC – this past one being one of the worst losses in franchise history and that's saying something for a team that dropped four consecutive Super Bowls – leading to the signing of Von Miller indicates that the team is entering the now-or-never phase of this big run: no pressure!

Miami: Raheem Mostert & Company running the ball in Mike McDaniels' system should force single-coverage on the team's explosive receivers, but the failure to utilize the (admittedly sparse) draft haul to reinforce the defense to a greater degree may sentence Tua to having to win a series of 35-31 games.

New England: As the playoff blowout at Buffalo showed, years of poor drafting have yielded a ceiling just above mediocre, even if the established system provides a high floor, meaning that this year and the reminder of Belichick's career should be spent hugging either side of the .500 mark.

New York Jets: A very good draft provided the first step towards digging this franchise out of its longstanding hole, but remaining holes on the offensive line and in the back seven, combined with a make-or-break year for Zach Wilson to show dramatic improvement, will see the team in last place yet again.

AFC NORTH

Baltimore: One of the best draft hauls of the past decade, combined with a manageable schedule, sets the table for a real prove-it season for Lamar Jackson.

Cincinnati: Joe Burrow no longer has a shower curtain for an offensive line, but a brutal schedule and the pressure of expectations render this team an excellent candidate for the Super Bowl hangover.

Cleveland: Just like a year ago, the Browns enter the season with a Top 5 roster and now a franchise QB and all that was lost was honor, as the saying goes, but questions about the length of a possible Watson suspension threaten to negate the softest schedule faced by any AFC contender this side of Indianapolis.

Pittsburgh: With the weakest quarterback situation in the division (aside from whenever Watson is suspended), continuing to overachieve relative to the level of talent on the roster looks to finally be coming to an end.

AFC SOUTH

Indianapolis: If Matt Ryan can channel the prime version of himself for one more season, the surrounding talent and a super-soft schedule render this team as a dark horse to emerge through the deepest crop of contenders in one conference for a Super Bowl in league history.

Tennessee: Holes in the receiving core, offensive line and back seven indicate that the window may well have closed for this era of the Titans.

Houston: The story of the draft was "many holes down, many holes to go," and the commitment to run with Davis Mills puts the Texans in position to accomplish their foremost goal for this season: filling the hole at QB in '23 with either Bryce Young or CJ Stroud.

Jacksonville: Doug Pederson will heal the scars of the short-lived Urban Meyer Era, but weird roster decisions continue to place a low ceiling on this franchise.

AFC WEST

Kansas City: Nobody came out of the draft better than the Chiefs, but a brutal first-half schedule and no more soft spots in the division will lead to one of two options in January and February: Steel Sharpens Steel or a burned-out team limping to the finish.

Denver: The expectation that Russell Wilson, like Peyton Manning before him, will provide the missing element to a Super Bowl title is overwhelming, but the remaining talent around him will keep the team in the mix to accomplish just that.

Los Angeles Chargers: Many top-level talents appear up and down the roster, but the team has devolved into too much of a stars-and-scrubs dynamic to be a serious contender in the AFC.

Las Vegas: Mark Davis is betting all the money in Sin City on Josh McDaniels' Version 2.0 being far better than the first incarnation, but the team is in the wrong division for having the remaining holes in the back seven.

One Run-On Sentence For Each NFC Team

NFC EAST

Dallas: The roster is in better shape than most post-draft, but the ongoing questionable big-game coaching of Mike McCarthy leads us to our usual damning with faint praise about this team: the man with one eye in the land of the blind is king.

Philadelphia: Holes remain at all three levels of the defense, but a successful draft plus the league's easiest schedule means that the Eagles could repeat as a playoff team even if the remaining questions about Jalen Hurts aren't resolved.

Washington: The Carson Wentz acquisition is indicative of an overall growing "what are they doing" vibe about this franchise.

New York Giants: Daniel Jones must have compromising pictures of somebody in the front office with a sheep, but the roster is improved post-draft, but the team will still struggle to stay out of the cellar in this garbage division.

NFC NORTH

Green Bay: The softest schedule this side of Dallas among top NFC contenders sets them up for another high playoff seed, but they carry the burden of proof of doing less with those circumstances than any other team over the last decade.

Minnesota: The Vikings have more questions in the trenches on both sides of the ball than usual, but Kevin O'Connell's effect on the offensive talent renders Minnesota as a wild-card contender in a shallow NFC.

Chicago: Holes in the lines on both sides of the ball raise the stakes for Justin Fields as he prepares to make an impression on a front office and coaching staff that inherited him.

Detroit: Coach Smedium Shirt has to deal with holes all over the defense and an unspectacular offense, leading to the chance to take a quarterback high in the 2023 NFL Draft if he is still around to enjoy it.

NFC SOUTH

Tampa Bay: Even the Cowboys don't have six automatic divisional wins like the Bucs, but the non-divisional schedule is relatively brutal and the defense has questions at the front and back, so while Todd Bowles inherits a better squad than most, a second Super Bowl in three years will not come easy.

New Orleans: Now sans Brees and Payton, the Saints are the league's collapse candidate that, weirdly enough, nobody sees coming, as a cap-stretched team with holes in key positions and question marks at quarterback and coach will lead to the revival of the derisive nickname "Ain'ts."

Atlanta: Marcus Mariota, especially behind that offensive line, equals tanking, especially with a defensive drowning in weak sauce.

Carolina: A roster thinner in star power than most also has a quarterback room that the coaching staff and front office have openly disdained, but a soft schedule may keep this bad franchise from drafting as high as the talent levels might indicate.

NFC WEST

Los Angeles Rams: The team has a rough schedule and a decent number of holes coming out of the draft, but then again, they did last year as well, but then again, the brutal task of repeating as Super Bowl Champions points to this team coming up short in January.

San Francisco: Ongoing questions about who will be under center exist alongside questions about a revamped running back room, as well as the offensive line and secondary, but a team that's made it as far or further than Championship Sunday two of the last three years (and both of the largely healthy years in that stretch) must be taken seriously in an NFC that is the thinnest it's been in decades.

Arizona: A team that looked like the '72 Dolphins at the start of the season and the 2017 Browns at the end of it faces a moment-of-truth season with Kliff Kingsbury, Kyler Murray, DeAndre Hopkins and other key figures whose biggest questions at this point seem to be between their ears.

Seattle: With a dumpster fire front seven and a bottom-five starting quarterback, the Seahawks are in full tank mode, leading to very reasonable questions about whether Pete Carroll is going to stick around through what could be a lengthy rebuild.

Top 10 NFL Players On The Spot In 2022

By Rick Morris/The FDH Lounge

NOTE: These players have all been thrust into high-pressure spots this year.

1 Rashod Bateman: The Ravens managed to rip off Arizona for Marquise Brown, but did not choose to replace him externally. Bateman not only carries the burden of trying to step up to become a #1 wide receiver, but he must do so in terms of a huge prove-it year for Lamar Jackson in terms of playoff success. Bateman's ability to fill his new role could help determine whether the Ravens can make it to the Super Bowl.

2 Joe Noteboom: Replacing Andrew Whitworth, coming off of a Super Bowl no less, is high-pressure, especially given that the aspirations in LA remain sky-high. Noteboom is certainly younger, but nobody expects him to be better than Whitworth. His ability to come close to what the retiring stud provided will be key to the Rams' hopes for a repeat.

3 Dohnovan West: An undrafted rookie to replace Alex Mack? That's a bold move, Cotton!

4 Channing Tindall: Not even the first ILB drafted from Georgia, albeit if there was a roster in the country with enough depth to yield multiple top pros at one position in 2021, it would be that one. But the Dolphins put their hopes for an upgrade at linebacker on Tindall and they had better be right – otherwise, Tua will not only have to be the real deal, he might have to win multiple shootouts.

5 Allen Lazard: A guy who just cracked 500 yards for the first time in 2021 at age 26 is going to replace Davante Adams? The Packers have pulled off switches like this before, but they're never high-percentage moves.

6 David Bell: The usual caveat applies: if Deshaun Watson misses any time in 2022 due to suspension, the Browns will not be a legitimate Super Bowl contender at all. But if Watson plays, he's going to need Bell to step up as a legitimate possession receiver considering that Cleveland let Jarvis Landry walk – perfectly understandable given the salary – and, less understandably, didn't retain Hollywood Higgins for relative pennies.

7 Sebastian Joseph-Day: He joins a D-line in need of reinforcement and is reunited with Brandon Staley, who needs the big man to surpass the production that he notched for the other team that plays in that building. No pressure!

8 Marcus Epps: He's been carving out a bigger role in the Philly secondary over the last few years and now the team has thrust him into a very central role. Even in a pathetic division in a weak conference, the Eagles can't afford to miss on gambles such as this.

9 Mo Alie-Cox: A team with few overall weapons in the passing game is promoting this guy to lead tight end as Indy hopes to see more "the old Matt Ryan" and less "old Matt Ryan." They're in a garbage division, but with moves like this, you can't pencil them in for the #4 seed just yet.

10T Treyton Burks & Robert Woods: A year ago, Tennessee was looking to the future with AJ Brown and a still-relevant Julio Jones. Life comes at you fast! Woods starts the season coming off of an injury and Burks is a raw rookie. This could be another of those 5,000-carry seasons for Derrick Henry.

FDH College Rankings & Team Draft Guidelines

On the draft board, the numbers in parentheses are taken from a poll consensus. Take 6 owners and conduct a 7-round standard draft. Points will be assigned at 4 intervals: when the first College Football Playoff poll is released, when the third poll is released, when the final poll is released on December 4 and when the final AP poll is released after the national title game. The first CFT poll accounts for 20% of the total score (with the exception of the bonus points, mentioned below), the third CFT poll accounts for 20% of the total score, the December 4 poll accounts for 20% of the total score and the final AP poll accounts for 40% of the total score.

For the first three polls, scoring is as follows: 1st place (50 points), 2nd place (45 points), 3rd place (43 points), 4th place (42 points), 5th place (41 points), 6th place (38 points), 7th place (37 points), 8th place (36 points), 9th place (35 points), 10th place (34 points), 11th place (30 points), 12th place (29 points), 13th place (28 points), 14th place (27 points), 15th place (26 points), 16th place (22 points), 17th place (21 points), 18th place (20 points), 19th place (19 points), 20th place (18 points), 21st place (13 points), 22nd place (12 points), 23rd place (11 points), 24th place (10 points), 25th place (9 points).

Points are doubled in the final poll, since it accounts for twice the point total of each of the three previous ones. Additional bonuses are awarded for the following accomplishments:

25 points for winning the National Championship Game, 15 points for winning the national semifinals, 10 points for earning a spot in the semifinals, 10 points for a conference title (or piece of one, for conferences without a championship game), 12 points for winning a "Big 6" non-semifinal bowl game, 6 points for earning a spot in a "Big 6" non-semifinal bowl, 5 points for winning a non-"Big 6" bowl game and 10 points for having the Heisman Trophy winner on one of your teams.

There is another wrinkle, an additional level if you want more depth to the game. It's called the "Top 3" option, which awards points for finishing in the Top 3 of a conference division. 250 points go to the top team in a division (with 100 bonus points for the winner of the conference championship game), 150 points to the second-place team and 50 points to the third-place team. For teams in the Big 12 where there are no divisions, the point totals remain the same, but with 35 points for fourth place and 20 points for fifth place. Records are determined first by conference record, with overall record serving as a tiebreaker, with a tie being proclaimed anytime that both records are the same. Our projected standings for each conference are listed on Page 15.

Eric Dickerson Is LA Rams Royalty

By Russ Cohen/Sportsology

Eric Dickerson is the greatest player in the history of the Los Angeles Rams. Hearing that he was offered "nosebleed" seats for the Super Bowl made me mad. I caught up with Dickerson and speaking with him was like going through a Rams history book.

He was the second overall pick in the 1983 NFL Draft. There was some drama involved with that. He played a lot of games at the LA Coliseum. "I was possibly going 1, 2, or 3," Dickerson remembered. "I didn't know who John Elway was. I didn't hear about him until our draft year. The Oilers had the second pick. I didn't want to go because they had Earl Campbell. I wanted to go to the Rams. I loved their uniforms as much as SMU. The Rams came to the SMU campus. They said they were going to draft me, and they had a plane ticket for me. We will pick you up by 9 AM. My boy drove me."

The mystery was gone and a legend was about to be born. He is still 10th all-time in rushing. "I'm very proud of this. A lot of times, I don't get the credit for different reasons. I made it look easy. I heard that all the time," Dickerson stated. "They vilified me back in the day for holding out. I never thought about records. For me, I always wanted to be great. That was my thing. That's how I was brought up. That's how I was taught. Being top 10 or top 20 was great. The most important thing was my team. I didn't want to let them down. I didn't miss my first game until my seventh year. And that was a hamstring injury. I ran the ball a lot. My rookie rushing record, I always said that one is going to last the longest. Maybe someone can get the 2,105 (still the single season rushing record) The 1,808 yards, 20 touchdowns, that's going to be hard to catch. I had no idea I would be carrying the ball that much."

Then he told me something I had never heard before. "When I came to the team, I was on the third team. Coach John Robinson changed the offense a few weeks before the season began. We went from a two-back offense to a one-back offense," Dickerson told me exclusively. "He saw me do this in a preseason game. And I liked it. They liked it, and they switched it. That's how I got the starting nod. It's an honor just to play pro football. Sometimes I can't believe I played. I'm thankful that I played."

This guy is prideful. He should be treated with more respect by the franchise.
