Draft Board Decoder

The FantasyDrafthelp.com draft board contains all the relevant information you need right at your fingertips.

* The "EXP" column shows how players ranked on an "Experts Draft Board" compilation of other leading industry sources. The "UQB" column shows how each player performed on our standard deviation from the mean statistic in 2025 (stat details on Page 2). If a league is considered stronger than the other one at this position, it will have its initials listed (capital letters means much stronger, lower case means not so much). Players listed in bold are eligible at two positions, with those players in all lower-case letters and bold for three positions and bold and all caps for four positions.

* Relevant 2025 statistical categories are listed, along with rankings for each, the number of games played and rankings in the aforementioned "UQB" category. $$ provides the dollar value for a mixed-value auction, while $ provides the dollar value for a single-league auction.

Evaluating Production Across a Spectrum: Lessons of our Proprietary Ultimate Quantitative Baseline Stat

Our "UQB" category (Ultimate Quantitative Baseline) on our draft board calculates the standard deviation from the mean in all relevant hockey categories. In simple English, imagine a spectrum going across from left to right, with negative numbers on the left side, a "zero" in the middle and positive numbers on the right. We utilize this statistic for football, hockey, basketball, hoops and NASCAR as well as baseball. For baseball, we use all of the standard fantasy categories listed on the draft board to factor in for this statistical compilation. A player's performance in each category is plotted on one of these spectrums, with the most valuable players putting up most of their numbers on the most of their numbers on the positive side. Then, we add up the totals of every category, positive and negative. By using this tool, we can identify not merely how they performed, but how valuable their performances were in each category. Truly, this statistic serves as the ultimate baseline for the previous season's production.

2026 Don't Be That Guy

^ Don't Be That Guy who sleeps on (or holds unhealthy grudges against) last year's falloffs. Bargain shopping in the middle & late rounds can bring you a championship. So don't hate on Jose Berrios!

^ Don't Be That Guy who enters the draft or auction with ironclad gimmicks. Rotisserie category "punting"! Only $1 apiece for all pitchers on the roster! All younger or all "proven" talent! The fact is that inflexible doctrines lead to failure, while nimble, think-on-your-feet reactive ability brings great success. Choose the latter approach and thank us when you're hoisting your trophy at the end of the year.

^ Don't Be That Guy who doesn't fully understand the nuances of your league's scoring system. Be fully prepared! Your choice of this draft guide is, frankly, an awesome start!

Here are our recommended formats for each (keeping in mind that for each format, if you have less than 10 owners, you should utilize a single-league format — and regardless of anything else, use a $100 Free Agent Acquisition Budget, or FAAB, to allow for distribution of players):^ Rotisserie baseball: We urge you to use the standard 5X5 setup, in which BA, HR, SB, Runs and RBI are used for hitters and Wins, Saves, WHIP, ERA and Ks are used for pitchers (4X4 leagues drop Runs and Ks). For example, if you are in a 12-team league, the team scoring highest in each category earns 12 points, on down to the lowest team earning 1 point. Rotisserie baseball is traditionally associated more with the auction format, which works well here. Each player is given $260 of figurative money to purchase 23 players (2C, 1 1B, 1 2B, 1 SS, 1 3B, 5 OF, 1 CI, 1 MI, 1 Utility, 7 SP, 2 RP), with a 5-round standard serpentine draft afterwards to fill out a taxi squad.^ Rotisserie/fantasy hybrid: This is probably our favorite form of competition, because it combines the traditional roto style with head-to-head play. Each week, you play against an opponent, competing in roto categories, with the winner of the most categories taking the victory (a tiebreaking category is established as a backup). Either an auction or the standard serpentine draft format works here.^ Fantasy baseball: These categories should be used, with the number of points awarded for each in parentheses: Single (1), Double (2), Triple (3), HR (4), Hitter K (- 1), Run (1), RBI (1), SB (1), Win (10), Save (5), IP-ER (1), K (1). For this format, a standard serpentine draft is preferred. |

2026 Mock Draft Analysis

ROUND 1: Nick Kurtz at #4 would have been mind-boggling a year ago, but it doesn't feel at all out of place.
 ROUND 2: Jon's got a strong Rising Sun flavor to his team thus far.
 ROUND 3: Tim bounces back with strong value, matching Rick. Holliday is an outstanding example of how Mike P loves to draft young, high-upside talent.
 ROUND 4: Russ picked up one of the best values thus far in Buxton. deGrom probably has an equal chance of overperforming and underperforming this draft slot for Nate.
 ROUND 5: Here come the closers!
 ROUND 6: With Riley, Langford and Albies, this is the round of the comeback hopes.
 ROUND 7: Rick takes a starting pitcher? Gee, what's the rush? With Yesavage and Misiorowski, big young upside was in demand.
 ROUND 8: Nate and Ben scooped up large value here. Cruz will be an incredible pick for Samm if this is the year that he acquires consistency.
 ROUND 9: Ben did it again with the value here!
 ROUNDS 10-20: How the mighty have fallen: Stanton, Semien, Jansen, Realmuto, Correa, Cole, Bregman, Wheeler and TROUT!

2026 Fantasy Overview

^ The banning of the shift before the 2023 MLB season has failed to yield any increase in batting average across baseball over the last three years, as it has gone from .243 in 2022 to a very mild increase of .248 back to .243 in 2024 to .245 in 2025. The continuing prevalence of the uppercut swing has undermined any benefits to hitters in terms of greater contact. Continue to reward high-average hitters accordingly.

^ The jump in SB/game over the last two years, which was widely forecast with the rules changes after the 2022 season, has, on the other hand, materialized, going from 1.02 in 2022 to 1.44 in 2023 to 1.48 in 2024 and 1.42 in 2025. These are the highest levels since 1995, which was at 1.46.

^ KO/game stabilized over the last few years, albeit in a range that is at the highest that it's ever been. The mark of 16.5 in 2017 marked an all-time record at that time and it's gone up as high as 17.36 in 2020, but it's toggled within that range consistently since then. The 2024 number was 16.96 and the 2025 number was 16.73. It's safest to expect that strikeouts will remain in that range in 2026. Pitchers who miss bats consistently still need to dominate the top of your rotation. In 2023, 35 of the top 47 starting pitchers on our board had more than a strikeout per inning. The number in 2024 was 34 of the top 47 who pitched that season. The number in 2025 was 30 of the top 36. Plan accordingly.

^ 2025 might have been the first year in the history of fantasy baseball when shortstop and outfield were the positions deepest in first-round talent. If you can snag a first-tier talent in both positions, you will have a significant leg up on the rest of your league. As with 2025, shortstop is deep enough, especially in terms of the top few second-stringers, that it would be completely viable to start your backup SS at DH, which has really never been the case before. Catcher is also unusually deep.

^ Positional depth varies at a few other positions relative to 2025: deeper in second-string depth at 1B narrower in first-string depth at 3B but deeper at second-string and starting pitching depth shallower at the top, but with a ginormous fourth tier where you can fill out your rotation.

^ Position eligibility is something that we focus on more than many of our peers and the Joe Maddon-ization of the game continues to trickle down to fantasy. The plethora of two-position, three-position and even four-position players is now remarkable. Every position that you save with a pick like that frees you up to go "best player available" in the late rounds when value will accrue at certain positions.

Tracing Offense In Baseball – From Before The Steroid Era Until Now

We at FantasyDrafthelp.com have been tracing offensive trends in baseball since we opened shop in 2006 and even longer than that, as part of the Drafthelp.com mothership previously. But the 2006 season stands out in particular when it comes to our track record, because FDH Director of Research Nate Noy indicated that there would be consequences statistically in terms of the new amphetamine testing. Of course, “greenies” had been a well-established part of the game for several decades and Nate predicated that less-alert players (keeping in mind that even hyper-caffeinated drinks would not come close to matching the effects of speed) would be far less likely to be able to keep up with the high heat. As the chart to the right indicates, he was absolutely right, with KO/Gm rising from 12.61 in 2005 to 17.35 in 2021, a monstrous jump in just 16 seasons! Beyond that correct prediction, however, we wanted to keep digging in light of the crash of offense in baseball by 2014. How much, exactly, had batting fallen off since the steroid era? And what had been the ebbs and flows of the game going even further back? We created an FDH offensive metric (the first column of the chart) by adding totaling up the spreads of the bolded categories (HR/Gm, Runs/Gm, BA, ERA and WHIP) going back to “The Year of the Pitcher” (and the year before baseball split into divisions for the first time ever), 1968. As such, we found that 2014 was the 49th-highest season for offense in this era – but the bounceback was coming. Call it the juiced ball effect, Statcast or whatever you want, but, paced primarily by an explosion in taters, by 2019 offense had incrementally moved back to the 18th-highest total. Clearly, baseball has had a few distinct eras in terms of offensive production since 1968: 1968-72 (a strong pitching era, with 1970 as an outlier), 1973-92 (a moderate offensive era with 1976, 1981 and 1987 as outliers), 1993-2000 (the first half of the steroid era, which built to a crescendo), 2001-09 (the second half of the steroid era, with offense receding slightly in the reverse of the previous period), 2010-14 (much less offense than the steroid era, similar to 1973-92 aside from 2014 being a pitching-dominated slight outlier) and the 2015-25 rebound of homer-dominated offense (which has not sent scores soaring to the steroid era levels purely because of the explosion of strikeouts).

2012-2026 FDH Best Player In Baseball Lists

NOTE: Since 2012, The FDH Lounge has been compiling an annual list of the best players in baseball, not in a fantasy sense, but in terms of all-around game. The list goes 30-deep, with an average of one player per team in MLB. The players listed just below each year's rankings fell off the list from the previous year. Numbers in parentheses indicate where players were ranked the previous year. We did not have a list in 2021, because it was too difficult to put together a comprehensive evaluation after the severely abbreviated 2020 season

THE TOP 75 PLAYERS IN PRO BASKETBALL HISTORY
 The NBA's 75th Anniversary has prompted a wave of Best-Of lists, but few with the substance to reinforce the selections. Authors Rick Morris, Ben Chew and Russ Cohen came together to create a list of the top 75 pro basketball players ever, with evidence to justify the placement of each - as well as biographical details, comparisons of various legends, little-known-but-interesting tidbits, what-if scenarios and much more. Additionally, the book includes our year-by-year ranking of the top players in pro basketball and rosters for hypothetical "Olympic Dream Teams" had they existed prior to 1992. This is a book that is crafted for sports fans who are interested in learning more about the rich history of pro basketball. Available on Amazon.com

THE TOP 75 PLAYERS IN PRO BASKETBALL HISTORY

The NBA's 75th Anniversary has prompted a wave of Best-Of lists, but few with the substance to reinforce the selections.

Authors Rick Morris, Ben Chew and Russ Cohen came together to create a list of the top 75 pro basketball players ever, with evidence to justify the placement of each -- as well as biographical details, comparisons of various legends, little-known-but-interesting tidbits, what-if scenarios and much more.

Additionally, the book includes our year-by-year ranking of the top players in pro basketball and rosters for hypothetical "Olympic Dream Teams" had they existed prior to 1992. This is a book that is crafted for sports fans who are interested in learning more about the rich history of pro basketball.

THE TOP 75 PLAYERS IN PRO BASKETBALL HISTORY

The NBA's 75th Anniversary has prompted a wave of Best-Of lists, but few with the substance to reinforce the selections. Authors Rick Morris, Ben Chew and Russ Cohen came together to create a list of the top 75 pro basketball players ever, with evidence to justify the placement of each -- as well as biographical details, comparisons of various legends, little-known-but-interesting tidbits, what-if scenarios and much more. Additionally, the book includes our year-by-year ranking of the top players in pro basketball and rosters for hypothetical "Olympic Dream Teams" had they existed prior to 1992. This is a book that is crafted for sports fans who are interested in learning more about the rich history of pro basketball.

 The NBA's 75th Anniversary has prompted a wave of Best-Of lists, but few with the substance to reinforce the selections. Authors Rick Morris, Ben Chew and Russ Cohen came together to create a list of the top 75 pro basketball players ever, with evidence to justify the placement of each -- as well as biographical details, comparisons of various legends, little-known-but-interesting tidbits, what-if scenarios and much more. NOTE: Here's our recommended scoring. These categories should be used, with the number of points awarded for each in parentheses: Single (1), Double (2), Triple (3), HR (4), Hitter K (- 1), Run (1), RBI (1), SB (1), Win (10), Save (5), IP-ER (1), K (1). For this format, a standard serpentine draft is preferred with six owners selecting six hitters and four pitchers apiece.

Briefly Summing Up Each AL Team

AL EAST

Toronto: The lineup won't be as strong as in 2025, but the starting pitching should be the class of the division and should ensure that the Jays can repeat as division champions.

NY Yankees: Pinstripe starting pitching should be right on the heels of Toronto, which is beneficial, since the lineup projects as being top-heavy.

Boston: There's kind of a theme developing in the division thus far, as Boston beefed up their starting pitching, which is necessary with the franchise leaning on young hitters to step up.

Baltimore: The hitting will bounce back in key areas and the pitching should be improved enough to snag an unbelievable fourth playoff spot for the division.

Tampa Bay: Small-market smoke-and-mirrors works better when the rest of the division is weaker than it is now, which is not good news going forward given the likelihood that Tampa's key competitors are set up to strongly contend for the next two years and ownership is, if anything, quicker on the draw than ever to deal players who are going to need to be paid in anything beyond pocket lint.

AL CENTRAL

Kansas City: The Royals are not in a truly elevated position, but the division has come back to them, allowing them to make it to October (albeit, as cannon fodder) with mediocre-at-best pitching and a top-heavy lineup.

Detroit: The Tigers, conversely, have a top-heavy rotation AND lineup, which will cause their forward progress to stall.

Cleveland: Making the playoffs with one of the worst offenses in team history is an illusion that will not repeat itself.

Minnesota: Unlike the truly bad teams in the sport, the Twins do sport at least a tiny few gems, but they define the phrase "nothing special" as a whole.

Chicago White Sox: Another in a line of hugely brutal seasons will arrive unless the promising minor league talent comes up and asserts itself strongly earlier than anticipated.

AL WEST

Seattle: The sole survivor in a collapsing division, the Mariners aren't merely winning by default, but are the league's best team on "both sides of the ball."

Houston: Still a strong team, the Astros are nowhere near the superpower that dominated the American League from 2017-22.

Texas: Firing Bruce Bochy as though he were the problem, combined with a payroll that keeps taking hits, will keep the Rangers at home in October even with a strong young core that will only continue to assert itself.

Athletics: The Kurtz/Wilson/Soderstrom/Butler young core has already become one of the game's best – even as Shea Langeliers has leveled up like there's no tomorrow – but one of the league's worst pitching staffs will hold them back.

LA Angels: Baby steps in the right direction aren't enough to compensate for talent scarcity that puts the Halos at the bottom of the game's second-worst division.

Briefly Summing Up Each NL Team

NL EAST

Philadelphia: An aging core that has been far too all-or-nothing in the past three Octobers is still dangerous enough to grab this division.

NY Mets: A few years into the Steve Cohen era, the reality is that the Mets are still just a supercharged version of the stars-and-scrubs amalgamation that they were for the previous decade.

Atlanta: Like the 1995 Braves, it's hard to believe that the 2021 Braves might represent the only World Series title of their era of existence, but this core is running out of time to prove that they have a second act.

Washington: The Groundhog Day of rebuilding franchises is left to count, yet again, on waiting for their minor league core to eventually, hopefully, save them.

Miami: This rebuild seems promising, but in the near term, the lineup is top-heavy and the pitching is putrid.

NL CENTRAL

Milwaukee: A strong lineup and very good rotation clearly still can't get the Brewers past the Dodgers in the playoffs, but they're still capable of beating almost all other teams.

Chicago Cubs: Losing Kyle Tucker is a huge blow that the Alex Bregman acquisition doesn't make up for, but the starting pitching is strong enough to get the squad back to the playoffs.

Cincinnati: The lineup doesn't have enough pop to become a serious contender, but the starting pitching may be the best that it's been in decades.

Pittsburgh: There's never been a stars-and-scrubs team like this one.

St. Louis: Ripping off the scab and getting off the hamster wheel of mediocrity is years overdue, so, bottoming out may be ugly and strange in the Gateway City, but it should lead to something much better in a few years.

NL WEST

LA Dodgers: Contrary to popular opinion, it rarely happens in sports, but the Dodgers right now are living proof that you can sometimes buy championships.

San Diego: The best that can be said that the Padres would have a real chance to win any other division in baseball.

San Francisco: Buster Posey is putting an interesting and unique touch on the Giants and it may be promising in the medium term even as the team doesn't have enough depth in the short term.

Arizona: This era of D-Backs baseball peaked in 2023 and the management seems to be absorbing that reality.

Colorado: The good news, if you want to call it that, is that the Rockies will advance from a short list of the worst teams of all time to a slightly longer list.
